

It's PORKtober!

Researchers at land-grant universities across the country are working together on new discoveries, tools, and practices that improve swine management, protect swine welfare, and enhance pork quality and food safety.

